REMARKS

This catalogue embraces the remarkable collection of engraved portraits of officers in the United States Navy, in the War of the Revolution and War of 1812; an exceedingly interesting and rare collection of American Naval and Land Battles, and the unique collection of Portraits of Early American Explorers and Navigators, the whole forming Part IV of the Hampton L. Carson Collection.

The portion relating to the United States Navy is probably the most important in private hands, and the portraits of the great naval hero, Com. Jno. Paul Jones, are unequalled, whilst those of the other American Naval Commanders who have attained distinction, including Perry, Hull, Decatur, Truxtun, Barry, Bainbridge, Barney, Dale, Macdonough, and Hopkins, are remarkably fine and complete, especially the latter (Hopkins), which embraces many rare mezzotints, executed in Europe, at the time, to herald the bravery of the great Yankee Commander of the Revolutionary Navy. The Naval Battle scenes are numerous and contain many of excessive rarity, whilst the Land Battles include several rare renditions of the Battle of New Orleans, as well as the engagements participated in by Gen. Wm. Henry Harrison.

A great feature of the sale is the unique collection of portraits of Early American Explorers and Navigators. We say unique, for we do not think there is another gathering like it, either in America or Europe. It embraces a period in American history which seems to have been overlooked by all collectors except Mr. Carson, and why this period, "the birth of the New World," should have been overlooked by collectors is incomprehensible. The field for collecting in this line is limited, we admit, as the portraits of many of the Explorers and Navigators were engraved when the art was in its infancy and are of excessive rarity. This may have been the drawback, but even taking this difficulty into consideration, it is astonishing, and amazing, the success which has attended Mr. Carson's efforts in this pursuit. It really seems a sacrilege to scatter this particular branch of the collection. It should be purchased in its entirety by the National Government, or by some of our great educational Universities. Too much stress cannot be placed upon its importance.
